

Online MA in Gaelic Literature

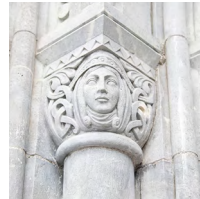

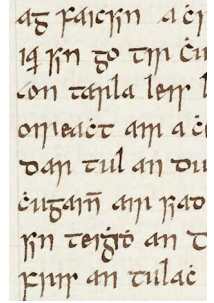

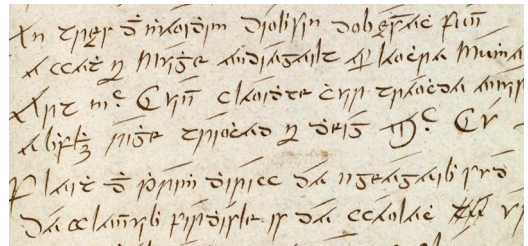

Department of Modern Irish

University College Cork, Ireland
Coláiste na hOllscoile Corcaigh

le yosefo mac iuchil oig is longain an ceo la do shanta ran mbt doon chuasé noceethen.

University College Cork's online MA in Gaelic Literature aims to provide students with an in-depth introduction to a distinctive literature of incredible variety, giving expression to the many identities of the Gaelic world, and extending over 1200 years, from monastic to modern times.

The MA in Gaelic Literature is taught completely online. It may be taken full-time (in one year) or part-time (in two years). The course is taught in English, no prior knowledge of any Gaelic language is required. The student chooses six taught modules (which may include an optional module on the Irish Language for beginners) and completes a minor dissertation of between 12,000 and 15,000 words. Access to all reading materials is provided as part of the course. As registered students of University College Cork, course-participants will be entitled to use all the electronic resources available through the Boole Library.

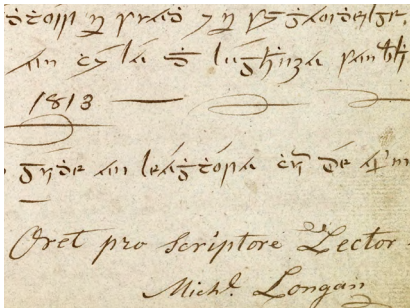

Comments from some of our students:

No one else offers a programme like this online. UCC offering this programme has allowed me finally to pursue a decade-old dream and to make that dream a reality.. It is a fantastic course, of which I am proud to be a part. (Falcia, Florida.)

I'm really enjoying the course and the course materials. It's exactly what I wanted to study. (Siobain, Italy)

For people with... reduced abilities, I would call this program very accessible. (Johanna, California)

I'm enjoying the course immensely and am finding it fascinating, stimulating and hugely enjoyable. The discussion boards and online delivery are working very well and I'm finding the interaction with my fellow students hugely beneficial. (Barry, Leeds, U.K.)

For further information contact:
Professor Pádraig Ó Macháin
Email: p.omachain@ucc.ie
or visit www.ucc.ie/en/ckd13/

